03 Severity levels

How we classify severity

Severity sets the clock. Classify a ticket by business impact, and our team confirms it on first response.

P1

CRITICAL

AccuKnox is down and inaccessible. Severe service failure or degradation affecting multiple users.

EXAMPLES

- Users cannot access a business critical application
- Consistent "page not found" errors prevent login

P2

HIGH

Partial service failure or mild degradation. Some, but not all, business resources are accessible.

EXAMPLES

- Admin console write access issue
- Slow access or occasional "page not found" errors
- Bug causing significant impact to service or integration

P3

MEDIUM

Minor service impact, affecting individual users or non critical third party applications.

EXAMPLES

- One user is unable to access an application
- Difficulty integrating new business applications

P4

LOW

Minor impact or a feature enhancement request.

EXAMPLES

- How to inquiries
- Feature enhancement requests

04 Contact support

Two ways to reach support

Listed in order of preference. Both routes open a tracked ticket with your Technical Account Manager team.

01

Email

Send your issue, severity and environment details directly to the support desk.

support@accuknox.com

02

Jira Service Desk

Raise a ticket through the customer portal to track status, history and updates in one place.

accu-knox.atlassian.net/servicedesk/customer/portal/1 ⓘ First time users need to sign up for a Jira account. If the portal does not load, open the link in an incognito or private browser window.

24

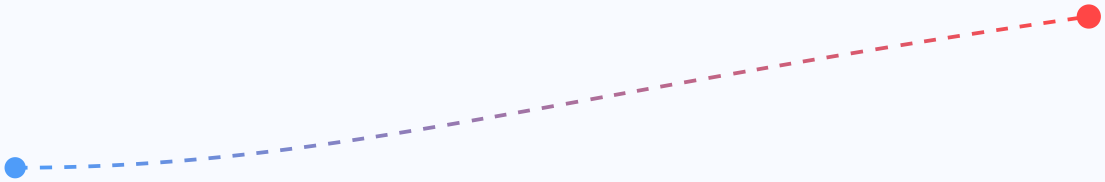

Business hours

Our support team responds to every ticket within 24 business hours. Severity SLAs on page 03 apply on top of this baseline.

05 Escalation matrix

Escalate with a named owner

If a ticket needs more attention, escalate one level at a time. Each level has a named person who owns the outcome.
